

MASTER CLASS VIOLIN

LECTURER: Prof. Sarah Christian wants to convey the diversity, honest emotion and energy of classical music to her listeners. In her artistic life she enjoys combining all influences: soloist, concertmaster of the Deutsche Kammerphilharmonie Bremen, chamber musician and artistic director of a chamber music series in her home town of Augsburg. In doing so, she sets the highest standards for herself. Her focus when dealing with the musical text is always on the content of the music, which she always approaches with great respect. She also received impulses and inspiration in master classes with Thomas Brandis, Donald Weilerstein, Rainer Schmidt, Maxim Vengerov and Miriam Fried. Since 2013 she has enjoyed being 1st concertmaster of the Deutsche Kammerphilharmonie Bremen, a position she also likes to use to lead the orchestra from the podium when it plays without a conductor. Since 2019, Sarah Christian has been professor of violin at the Staatliche Hochschule für Musik und Darstellende Kunst in Stuttgart.
