"#326 - Music pedagogy"

The #326 methodology for music teachers developed by Johann Schmuck is primarily about providing pupils and teachers with macro- and microscopic structures and strategies with which they can inevitably improve in a solution-orientated and self-effective way. The ongoing success of the teacher-student-parent team develops into an upward spiral - because: talent is not born, talent is earned! The course also thrives on input and individual topics from the participants' everyday lives.

Extract from the course content:

annual planning, the student-teacher-parent triangle, successful practice strategies in detail, stage fright strategies, error culture, self-care for music teachers.
